EDITORIAL

The Articles, Art, Faith and Culture writing, the New Media and Interviews that are in The Book of JAMMO, span half a decade in the making. The contributions are unique as they come from centres of excellence and areas of significance such as Western Asia, England, Europe and South America; to name a few.

The work has been recognised by experts as of top quality and comparable to the very best in the world; with over 650 pages of useful research.

As the managing editor and the editor-in-chief, I am appreciative of the support received from the leaders of thoughts in Turkey, USA, Spain and the UK.

The epistemology of The Book of JAMMO is at times challenging to some confining writing paradigms such as the scientific and the academic as a deliberate act of promoting transformational dialogues to dislodge the stale and the all-assuming in scientific and academic publications. In this regard, the book has provided equal platform for traditional writing and the experimental without an apology. The diversity of genres and styles are complimentarily a 'breath of fresh air'.

It is my hope that readers will share my enthusiasm and receive the book well. If for any reason, there are any mistakes, typos or errors in the compilation, the responsibility lies with me and with me alone.

Wish you well and lively,

Prof. Dr. Paul Ade Silva
